About RAJKOV

More Than a community. More Than Festivals.
RAJKOV (Rajasthani Kutumb of Victoria) is where culture, family and belonging come together.

We unite Rajasthani families to celebrate our traditions, build lifelong friendships and inspire the next generation of leaders. Whether your roots are in Rajasthan or Australia, RAJKOV welcomes everyone with the warmth of family.

From vibrant cultural festivals and family gatherings to youth leadership, community service and professional networking, we create opportunities to connect, grow and give back. Proud of our heritage and inspired by Australia's multicultural spirit, we are preserving our traditions while building a stronger future together.
Our roots unite us. Our values inspire us. Our future belongs to all of us.

A Message from Our Founding Families

In 2003, far from our homeland but united by our shared Rajasthani roots, six families came together with a simple dream—to create a home away from home for Rajasthanis in Victoria.

What began as informal gatherings to celebrate our festivals, speak our language, and support one another soon grew into RAJKOV – Rajasthani Kutumb of Victoria. The vision was never just to organise events, but to build a family where every Rajasthani would feel welcomed, connected, and proud of their heritage while embracing life in Australia.

We gratefully acknowledge our founding families, whose vision laid the foundation for the vibrant community we enjoy today:

- Ghanshyam & Savita Soni
- Brij & Vandana Panwar
- Mahendra & Sunita Goyal
- Rajesh & Sunita Manihar
- Rajiv & Anjul Sharma
- The Jawle Family, who contributed during the early days before relocating to the United States.

Today, more than two decades later, RAJKOV continues to grow because of their foresight, commitment and belief that our culture, traditions and values are strongest when shared as one family. We honour their legacy and remain committed to carrying that vision forward for generations to come.

Founder’s Stories

Brij Panwar co-founded RAJKOV in 2003 with five other families to preserve Rajasthani culture, connect future generations to their roots, and build a supportive community in Australia. As RAJKOV’s first Secretary, and later Vice President and President, he laid the foundation for the organisation’s growth. His home remains RAJKOV’s registered address, and his continued mentorship, guidance and service as Returning Officer have helped shape the inclusive and vibrant community RAJKOV is today.

Commitee Initiatives

Hello Everyone,

This year, the RAJKOV Committee has taken a proactive approach to strengthen our community by launching the Youth Committee and RAJKOV Youth Band to empower the next generation. We introduced a pre-planned annual calendar with early venue bookings, making it easier for families to plan and ensuring well-organised events. Membership has been enhanced with Unique Annual & Life Member Family IDs and an Early Bird RAJKOV Coin initiative to encourage timely renewals. We have also started early engagement with sponsors and are actively pursuing government grants and council funding opportunities to support community programs and ensure the long-term sustainability of RAJKOV. Together, these initiatives are helping build a stronger, more connected, and future-ready community.

Youth Spotlight

Hello Future Leaders of RAJKOV!
Whether you were born in Rajasthan, Melbourne, or anywhere else, your story is now part of the RAJKOV story.
Our parents and grandparents brought with them the colours, traditions and values of Rajasthan. Now it's our turn to keep that spirit alive—not just by celebrating festivals, but by creating new memories, building friendships and shaping what it means to be a proud Rajasthani in Australia.
You don't need to speak perfect Marwari or know every tradition to belong here. If you're curious, passionate and willing to connect, you're already part of the family.
This newsletter is your space. Share your achievements, ideas, stories, photos, talents and experiences. Whether it's sport, music, dance, business, volunteering or simply making a difference, we'd love to celebrate you.
Let's honour our roots, embrace our future, and build a community where every young Rajasthani feels proud to say:
"I'm part of RAJKOV."
See you at our next event!

- Whether you've visited Jaipur countless times or haven't had the chance yet—this community is for everyone.

Each of us contributes a unique piece to the puzzle, and that's what makes our community truly special. This newsletter is your platform to connect, share, and celebrate our rich heritage. Let's continue to build something wonderful together!

Rajasthan Heritage Spotlight

Pagadi -Ri- Laaz

Historically, there are over 80–100 documented styles of Rajasthani pagdis (safas). The exact number varies because every region, princely state, and community developed its own unique way of tying a turban. Some historians even identify more than 100 variations.

The Rajasthani Pagdi (Safa) was much more than traditional headwear. It served four important purposes:

- Protection – Shielded the head from the harsh sun, heat, and desert dust.
- Identity – Indicated a person's region, community, profession, or social status.
- Honour – Symbolised dignity, respect, and self-esteem; removing one's pagdi was considered a loss of honour.
- Tradition – Different colours and styles were worn for weddings, festivals, royal ceremonies, and other special occasions.

Cultural Importance
In Rajasthan, there is a famous saying:
"पगड़ी की लाज रखना" — To protect someone's honour.
Even today, presenting or tying a Safa for a guest is considered one of the highest marks of respect. It represents the Rajasthani values of honour, hospitality, and pride, making it far more than just a piece of cloth.
